

CHRISTMAS RESOURCES

#1. Bible Fresh – FREE Download of the MANGA BIBLE (KJV)

A series of 7 PDF files are available to download, for free, from the Bible Fresh website – a great resource that you can pass on to young people, I have been reading them on my iPhone – download them and pass them on!

#2. A Social Network Christmas

Produced a few years ago, but still quite fun – the nativity told through facebook updates . . .

#3. The Paradox of Christmas

This is fantastically animated, beautiful artwork and a simple message . . .

#4. Re-tooning The Nativity

The real story . . . a great animated re-telling of the story – removing all the bits that are not mentioned in the Bible, funny and thought provoking – I used it myself last year to great effect.

#5. Christmas in a Nutshell

Yep, another short animated video – again, very good!

#6. Hallelujah

The Shepherds and the Wisemen head to the stable, nicely rendered animation with the haunting trumpet of Chris Botti (you could also check out his album, "December" on Itunes!)

#7. For Gifts you can't wait to Give

OK, this is number 7 on my list of Christmas resources . . . but I would download this video (Type the URL into www.Keepvid.com and select the format you want, then save it to your computer) . . . a clever advert – making a great point about what Christmas is about. We have received an incredible GIFT – we should be so excited about it that we cannot wait to share that gift with others! More blessed to give than to receive (Acts 20:35) The word used in this verse for "to help" the weak is used ONCE in scripture – here! And literally means the help needs to be "in proportion to the need", this is not about a little bit of giving to ease our conscience – this is serious giving! We have received from God that which was in proportion to our need – our need of a Saviour!
